A Report on Compulsory Field Work

On

Ajyodha Mouza , Block- Bagmundi ,District- Purulia

Students of Sem-5 (Hons.) and Sem-6 (General.), Session 2022-23 from 19.09.2022 to 23.09.2022

Our fieldwork and study on the physical, cultural, and socioeconomic situation of Ajyodha Mouza, in the Baghmundi block of Purulia district, West Bengal has examined several features for both development and crisis. In addition, several suggestions for resolving the issues and crisis for our study's sustainable development have been given. The rural lifestyle of the residents of the Ajyodha region is reflected in our study area, along with their adaptation to the physical environment and related issues. The field/project report was prepared by establishing the relationship between the physical aspects and the socio-economic condition using various maps, diagrams, and statistical approaches.

Objectives of the Field Study:

1. To examine our study area's physical state.
2. To find out our study area's socioeconomic and cultural conditions.
3. To research the specifics, issues, and crisis of our field of study.
4. To emphasize some plans and recommendations for the rural development of our students' study area.
5. Creating learning experiences that work and helping our students grow personally.
6. Increasing deeper physical, social, cultural, and geographic knowledge of space of our students.
7. To strengthen our students' critical thinking abilities and experience and contextual learning.

Selection of the Study Area:

Ajyodha Mouza, is located in Baghmundi block of Purulia district. Plateau region, undulating topography, isolated hills, existing forest area, local tribes, their forest based livelihood, their adaptation, strong cultural characteristics, evolution of tourism and its expansion, impact on land use and on the livelihood of the local tribes, their struggle in draught situation, poor government education system, large rate of drop out, livelihood changes, challenges and impact on socio-economic, ecology and environment of the area adds unique feature and encouraged us to select the spot as the study area.

Study Area: Ajyodha Pahar , Block- Bagmundi ,District- Purulia.

Findings:

1. Enormous scope to develop ecotourism throughout the area.
2. Lack of irrigation, draught in summer, poor soil depth and nature acts as hindrances for cultivation.
3. Changing land use and ecology of the region due to the expansion of tourism.
4. Tourism and development enhanced the deforestation in the region.
4. The villagers face medical and infrastructural issues.

Recommendation:

Modern agriculture, horticulture, and tourism require greater investment, and there should be distinct infrastructure development programs for various situations, such as education, health, drinking water, employment, etc.

Conclusion:

The general conversation regarding the socioeconomic, cultural, and physical state of our research area highlights the state of development in the absence of adequate infrastructure development. It is also seen from this perspective that many amenities are woefully insufficient. The aforementioned suggestion has been implemented by several NGOs in our government to ensure sustainable development in our study area's infrastructure. But as the tourism has become popular and expanding significantly that ultimately have developed the road network,
